Hi Jocelyn,

I hope you had a good holiday. Thank you for speaking with my colleague Ralf earlier this week and your subsequent email, which I have just picked up.

Re C2, I have managed to contact our client re constructing the herringbone panels and quoins from Kent red reclaimed bricks and he has confirmed that he will use the same reclaimed bricks as previously approved. I have attached some images, which show both the reclaimed Kent red bricks and the natural slate roof tiles that are to be used.

Re C3, as mentioned in your email the drawings PL/444/10 and 11 show the outbuildings will be recovered with natural slate roof tiles. This is correct and the corrugated iron will be replaced with the same slate as on the new dwelling. Apologies as I confused this on my previous email.

I hope this is all acceptable and look forward to hearing from you in due course.

With kind regards.
Maxine
